Amy Helfand
West Kortright Centre

By Robert Tomlinson

Amy is described as a creator and a convener. In 2018, following 20 years in Brooklyn, she brought her background in studio art, enthusiasm for performance and strengthening community to the West Kortright Centre to become its new executive director.

In 2012, she founded the House of Love house concert series in Red Hook and has nurtured it into a thriving venue for local, national and international musicians. Amy has a deep involvement with Miles of Music Camp, serving on the Advisory Board and managing a weekend camp in Brooklyn. Her art practice has evolved into a decade-long collaboration with weavers in Nepal, who translate her designs into handmade rugs. She has an BA in American Studies from Hampshire College and MFA from The School of the Art Institute of Chicago.

Set in a bucolic rural valley in the northwestern Catskill Mountains of New York State, The West Kortright Centre is a nonprofit organization dedicated, since its founding in 1975, to excellence in the arts, featuring a diverse blend of world-class concerts, workshops, art exhibits, and community events. Visit westkc.org for more information.

We look to the future with a sense of possibility. In addition to continuing our mission of stewardship of our historic building, service to the community and excellent programming, the board and staff are using this period of change to take a fresh look at our organization’s operations. How do we remain vital, relevant and healthy in a community that is growing and changing? What is the best of what we do? How can we engage younger and more diverse audiences? How can we use new technologies to improve our productivity and generate more income? How does the board evolve to accommodate these changes?

The Woodstock Film Festival is once again gearing up for its annual celebration of independent cinema from around the world, this time marking a very special occasion: its 20th Anniversary. The festival, which takes place in the Hudson Valley towns of Woodstock, Rhinebeck, Kingston, Saugerties and Rosendale, was founded in 2000 by filmmakers Meira Blaustein and Laurent Rejto as a grassroots arts organization inspired by the love of film and community. It is now widely acknowledged for showcasing passionate, creative and thought-provoking work by some of today’s most promising and accomplished independent filmmakers.

“Woodstock is a name that has long conjured the spirit of artistry, progressive thinking, and independence. Over the past 20 years, the Woodstock Film Festival has been in a unique position to witness the global evolution of independent film, to support it, and to grow with it, and we look forward to the ever changing bright future ahead,” says Meira Blaustein, Woodstock Film Festival Co-founder and Executive Director.

Special programming this year will include a free pre-festival kickoff event: a screening of Roger Ross Williams’ The Apollo, which chronicles the unique history and contemporary legacy of New York City’s landmark Apollo Theater, in Kingston’s historic Bardavon 1869 Opera House, co-presented with Radio Kingston.

Williams (God Loves Uganda), an award-winning director, producer, writer, and the first African-American director to win an Academy Award for his short film Music by Prudence, returns to the festival as a special guest programmer. He selected the documentary Simon Shaheen: A Musical Journey, a world premiere directed by Tarik Benbrahim, and the festival’s official Kickoff Event. The film takes us on a journey of classical Arabic music as it chronicles the life of the oude and violin virtuoso. A live performance by Shaheen will follow the film. Williams also chose the film Gay Chorus Deep South, by David Charles Rodrigues, in which the San Francisco Gay Men’s Chorus embarks on an activist tour in the Deep South in response to a wave of discriminatory anti-LGBTQ laws in Southern states and the divisive 2016 election.

Speaking about Gay Chorus Deep South, Williams says: “This beautiful film has been a massive hit with audiences on the festival circuit. That’s because in these times of great division, hatred and the rise of white supremacy, this film offers a glimmer of hope into the good and reminds us that despite our differences we are more connected than we think [...] As a gay man who grew up in the church, I understand the pain of rejection but filmmaker David Charles Rodrigues has made a film that is about the restorative power of art. Gay Chorus Deep South will fill your heart with joy and your mind with wonderful music.”

FILMS ABOUT THE ENVIRONMENT

Situated in a region where nature plays an integral role in people's day-to-day lives, the Festival has always paid special attention to films that bring awareness to the environment. Bamboo Stories, a North American premiere by Bangladeshi filmmaker and cinematographer Shaheen Dill-Riaz, is a visually rich and intimate story of five men who must face river pirates and summer storms to transport 25,000 bamboo logs to a wholesaler nearly 200 miles down the misty waters of the Kushiyara River in northeastern Bangladesh. Showcasing striking imagery of lush forests and busy waterways, Bamboo Stories illuminates the daily struggles of a profession caught between the tides of natural and modernizing forces.

Shot in neighboring India and edited in the Hudson Valley, first time filmmaker Jesse Alk's Pariah Dog focuses on a community of eccentric street dog caretakers living on the fringes of society in Kolkata. Filmed over the course of three years, the images captured from the streets of this lively port city and of its canine residents are shocking, disturbing and beautiful all at once. Premiering for the first time on the East Coast, Pariah Dog illuminates the daily struggles of a profession caught between the tides of natural and modernizing forces.

In Ash, directed by Andrew Huculiak, wildfires are raging in the Canadian province of British Columbia. Daredevil journalist Stan Hurst (Hudson Valley’s Tim Guinee) is covering the devastation, repeatedly placing himself in danger. But the mammoth fires are dwarfed by the personal demons that Hurst is fighting within.

FILMS TIED TO THE HUDSON VALLEY

Several films produced or directed by Hudson Valley based filmmakers will be featured, including Accord-based director Peter Nelson's The Pollinators, a documentary about the billions of honeybees that get trucked around the U.S. to pollinate the multitude of crops that produce fruits and vegetables we eat on a daily basis. With record numbers of bees dying from exposure to parasites, pesticides, poor nutrition, and habitat loss, The Pollinators embarks on a quest to determine whether anything can be done to protect these valuable insects.

Once Upon a River, directed by Haroula Rose, and based on the best-selling novel by Bonnie Jo Campbell, tells the story of Native American teenager in 1970s rural Michigan who is forced to leave home and journey on the Stark River in search of her estranged mother. Many scenes from the film were shot in the Hudson Valley.

In the U.S. premiere of Run with the Hunted, a first solo directed film by the Hudson Valley's Jon Swab, a young boy, Oscar, commits a noble murder and is forced to run away from his rural hometown, leaving behind his best friend, Loux, and joining a ragtag band of lost children. Fifteen years later, as Oscar becomes the leader of his child street gang, secrets begin to emerge.

In Swallow, directed by Carlo Mirabella-Davis and shot in the Hudson Valley, a newly pregnant woman's idyllic existence takes an alarming turn when she develops a compulsion to eat dangerous objects. As her husband and his family tighten their control over her life, she is forced to confront the dark secret behind her uncontrollable obsession.

The Land of Little Rivers is a funny, irreverent, hybrid documentary by Aaron Weisblatt set in the Catskill Mountains that examines the unique subculture of “dry-fly” fishing. The film interviews several infamous and legendary wranglers who are consumed with a burning passion bordering on addiction for a sport that is impacted by environmental regulations and climate change.

Scores of additional films will be featured. Be sure to check our website www.woodstockfilmfestival.com for the latest info!

#hvdance daradance.org
Just say the name “Woodstock,” and most folks will get a faraway dreamy look in their eyes. The very name calls up a wistful nostalgia for the ’60s, whether or not you’re even old enough to have lived in the decade. Peace and love, tie-dye, hippies, drum circles … many people know “America’s most famous small town” as the place that inspired the iconic 1969 music festival that bears its name. Yes, Bob Dylan and members of The Band lived and recorded here, as did many other musical icons from the ’60s. But did you also know that Woodstock's association with the arts goes way, way back, to the 1900s? In 1902, writer Hervey White, along with Ralph Whitehead and Bolton Brown, founded the Byrdcliffe Arts Colony as a utopian community of writers, painters, musicians … artists of all kinds. It was at Byrdcliffe that the first Maverick Festivals were held: raucous bacchanalian parties that celebrated the arts; these Festivals planted the roots of famous 1969 Music Festival. And in 1916, Hervey started sponsoring summer chamber music concerts under the stars: 104 years later, Maverick Concerts is the oldest, continuous summer chamber music festival in America. To this day, Woodstock continues its tradition of hosting festivals that celebrate the arts, and the streets are lined with galleries, shops featuring locally made crafts, music venues, theaters … there’s something going on just about every weekend.

It’s a beautiful thing, seeing a town that not only embraces its history but builds and grows upon it. And every day welcomes visitors to share their own artistic visions, helping to shape its future. Yes, the peace and love, tie-dye, and hippies are all still there! And the drum circle every Sunday on the Village Green is a hoot—don’t miss it!

In 1932, Henry O. Houst, father of six children and husband of Anna Mae, opened a small electric motor repair shop on Rock City Road. The shop was named the Tinker Shop. After a few years, Henry O. added a few tools, hardware and paint to the offerings of the Tinker Shop. Needing more room, he moved the shop to Mill Hill Road—diagonally across from the shop’s present location. In 1943, Henry O.’s eldest child, Henry L., purchased the building presently housing H. Houst & Son, Inc. Several of Henry O.’s daughters were involved in hand carrying all the merchandise across the street to the new location, and one of Henry O.’s other sons became a co-owner and also helped to manage the store until 1966. In 1965, Henry L.’s son Ned returned from three years service as a naval officer and agreed to try his hand at the business “for a year.” Fast forward to 2019, Ned and his wife Shelby are still active in the business. Jody Bryan, Shelby’s daughter, is the President and General Manager, her husband John Despres is the Vice President and Manager of the equipment rental division. H. Dogs Rule. In 1996, Amy Harlow adopted six week-old twin Shiba Inus, Lucy and Tonto, and quickly discovered how difficult it was to find cool, classic, quality products for dogs that were both fun and functional. With her education in fashion and a successful career in modeling, Amy brought her expertise from the catwalk to the dog park and the wagwear brand was born. Founded in 1998, wagwear offers puppy chic in the latest colors and trends with fully-functional details such as reflective tape in the leashes and coats, materials such as oil cloth, canvas and climbing rope, and overall classic design one might find on the beaches of Cape Cod or the streets of Tribeca the same weekend. Stop by her shop for a custom fit or call and be guided through some fairly simple measurements. Wagwear ships internationally, domestically, down the street, or under the boardwalk. Anywhere your pup goes, we go.

“I recently had the pleasure of being a guest at an unforgettable Mangia and Enjoy catered backyard party. The pleasure began the moment I stepped foot in the small backyard that had been transformed into the most welcoming and delightful summer space with the tasteful use of color and attention to charming detail. The spread of appetizers was a delicious feast in itself. The courses of the main meal offered all the satisfaction of comfort food made memorable by the disciplined restraint of a chef that knows how to let each carefully sourced ingredient sing. Of special note was the Osso Bucco for being so tender a knife was unnecessary. It melted in the mouth. I was shocked to later learn that chef Sarah is herself vegetarian. Her cooking is guided by smell, she tells me. What an excellent sense of smell! It is so rare to have good comfort food that is also good for you…. The green beans were picture perfect green, their bite a perfect crisp of lightly flavored yum. The cake, by all accounts (since I do not eat cake), was delicious without being too sweet. The whole event, from aesthetic start to delicious finish, was unforgettable.

Now in its seventh year, Hudson Valley Dance Festival brings world-class dance from a diverse range of styles, companies and choreographers to the heart of the Hudson Valley. But, rivaling all the festival has brought to the region, the Hudson Valley’s own captivating beauty, palpable sense of community and vibrant artistic energy has enriched the festival in a myriad of ways.

The festival, produced by and benefiting Dancers Responding to AIDS, a program of Broadway Cares/Equity Fights AIDS, returns October 12 with two performances at Historic Catskill Point in Catskill.

“We strive to inspire the audiences of Hudson Valley Dance Festival because we are so endlessly inspired by the Hudson Valley,” Dancers Responding to AIDS Founding Director Denise Roberts Hurlin said. “As the region continues to emerge as a dance destination, the area and the community within it fosters creation from our incredible lineup of performers and choreographers.”

Three performances from this year’s program have direct ties to the rich artistic vitality of the Hudson Valley. Dance Lab New York is holding a creative retreat this fall at the Petronio Residency Center in Round Top, NY, in Greene County. At the festival, Dance Lab New York will share a work created by artistic director Josh Prince, who choreographed the Broadway hit Beautiful—The Carole King Musical. Omari Mizrahi, a Senegalese dancer and choreographer who fuses traditional African dance with house and voguing, is creating a piece for his company Les Ballet Afrik during a residency at Kaatsbaan in Tivoli. An excerpt of the work in progress will be performed at the festival and the full piece will premiere as part of the Guggenheim’s Works & Process series.

And earlier this year, celebrated male repertory company 10 Hairy Legs shared a sneak peek performance with Hudson Valley Dance Festival supporters at Catskill’s LUMBERYARD Center for Film and Performing Arts. The company returns to the festival this year to share a piece from its acclaimed repertoire.

They’ll join a lineup that also includes Gallim Dance, a duet from former Alvin Ailey American Dance Theater dancers Michael Francis McBride and Samuel Roberts, and RIOULT Dance NY. Choreography by Joshua Beamish, Larry Keigwin, James Kinney, Andrea Miller and Pascal Rioult will be featured. More companies and choreographers are set to be added leading up to the festival.

The location of the festival is, in itself, a celebration of the region’s beauty and bounty. At Catskill’s breathtaking Historic Catskill Point, a 19th century warehouse is transformed into a dance venue, set along the idyllic banks of the Hudson River. And in a region so defined by the vibrancy of its seasons, the surrounding nature is speckled with vivid reds, oranges, yellows and browns, creating the ultimate fall cultural escape for locals and visitors alike.

Since its inception, Hudson Valley Dance Festival has been a product of the community’s vision and support. The festival was originally proposed by Greene County residents Duke Dang, Charles Rosen and Todd Whitley, building on Dancers Responding to AIDS’ two decades of creating unique dance performances. Thanks to foundational support from Hudson Valley homeowners and Dancers Responding to AIDS supporters Nina Matis and Alan Gosule, the festival has been able to expand, flourish and further become deep-rooted within the region.

And for all that the Hudson Valley gives to the festival, Dancers Responding to AIDS is committed to giving back locally to people in need. As part of Broadway Cares’ National Grants Program, grants have been awarded to 13 AIDS and family service organizations within the Hudson Valley: Albany Damien Center and Alliance for Positive Health in Albany; Animalkind, Columbia-Greene Community Foundation and Hudson Valley SPCA in Hudson; Matthew 25 Food Pantry and Community Hospice in Catskill; Hudson Valley Community Services in Hawthorne; Hudson Valley LGBTQ Community Center in Kingston; Rock Steady Farm in Millerton; Roe Jan Food Pantry in Hillsdale; TOUCH (Together Our Unity Can Heal) in Congers and Troy Area United Ministries in Troy. This is in addition to more than 450 other organizations in all 50 states, Puerto Rico and Washington, D.C.

Tickets to the festival are on sale at dradance.org. Performances are at 2 pm and 5 pm. Prices range from $40-$275 with sponsorship opportunities also available. VIP tickets include an intimate dinner with the artists after the 5 pm performance. The dinner will be at W&G SPACE, a stunning renovated art studio along Catskill Creek owned by Wenling Zhao and Guorui Shi, a celebrated Chinese artist who specializes in photography. Shi’s work will be on exhibit at Catskill’s Thomas Cole House. All tickets at the $125 level and higher include a cocktail reception at 3:30 pm at Historic Catskill Point.

“We are so lucky to call the Hudson Valley our festival’s home,” Hurlin said. “We hope that with each year, we further plant roots within this special community as it blossoms into a center for art, dance and performance.”

NANCY AZARA
the meeting of the birds

THROUGH OCTOBER 6, 2019

“As the crow flies, so does the witch…”
a lecture/performance with Kay Turner
SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 14 @ 2 PM
Nancy Azara has been an intricate part of New York City’s art scene since the early 1970’s, beginning with her first solo show at the Son-raed Gallery in 1971 and a group exhibition at the Brooklyn Museum of Art in 1974.

In 1974 she received her B.S. degree from Empire State College S.U.N.Y., after studying at the infamous Art Students League of New York from 1964-67.

Ms. Azara has taught and lectured widely and her works are in the collections of many notable museums including Amherst College, Everson Museum, Yale Art Museum, The Los Angeles County Museum of Art, The Metropolitan Museum of Art and the Museum of Modern Art in New York. She is also the author of Spirit Taking Form: Making a Spiritual Practice of Making Art.

Nancy Azara’s work is distinct in many ways, beginning with her profound understanding of the materials she uses to create her pieces. This deep connection to the language of her materials provides a spiritual as well as intuitive path to articulating her visions in wood or on paper.

The Catskill Mountain Foundation’s Kaaterskill Fine Arts Gallery is delighted to present Meeting of the Birds, a solo exhibition that will feature works on paper, three-dimensional sculptures and a series of small paintings.

Regarding this new body of work, Azara states, “I made collages, prints, banners, and carved and painted sculptures that recorded my journey of ideas and memories around the unseen and the unknown, reflecting on time and mortality through facets of my personal history. I juxtapose real tree limbs and vines with arboreal imagery—including renderings of witch hazel and rhubarb leaves—using them as stand-ins for my own presence, and as expressions of the dogged persistence of life.

Processes of pressing and rubbing, cutting and pasting, scraping and gouging are evident throughout the finished images and objects. I often balance instinctive marks against more considered decisions, arriving at a dynamic interplay between the deliberate manipulation of materials and the operation of chance. The heraldic banners, which suggest clothing or birds’ plumage, can be exhibited indoors or outdoors, where they are continually reshaped by the elements.

In my recent “Crow and Sandal” series of works on paper, the recurring motif of the crow acts as a symbolic messenger and metaphorical self-portrait, while the sandal (which in Hinduism represents a realization of the spiritual) functions as a symbol of the infinite. Here, as in other works, the images’ repetition suggests an attempt to examine and suspend their power in time and space.”

Gardeners who love digging their fingers into the soil while planting may feel nostalgic this month for springtime. But planting season is not quite over. For garlic, it’s just starting.

Mid-September to mid-October is the ideal time in Greene County to plant this exceptionally cold-hardy vegetable, which can survive temperatures colder than we experience—as cold as -30º. Fall-planted garlic develops large, sturdy root systems before winter to support quick growth in spring. Meanwhile, an inch or so of green shoots persisting through the snow make a cheerful reminder that winter will not last forever.

Garlic is appreciated all over the world. It was grown in China as far back as 2000 B.C.E., where it was used medicinally to support the digestive and respiratory systems. In ancient Egypt, it was fed to the slaves who built the pyramids to make them stronger. Thanks to Hollywood, we know its reputation in Transylvania for keeping vampires at bay.

Over thousands of years and across the world, hundreds of varieties have developed. The two most basic categories are softneck, which can be made into garlic braids, and hardneck, which produces the curly scapes that are such a treat in late spring. Softneck garlic usually keeps longest; some varieties, like Silver White, will keep a year or more. Hardnecks produce larger, more evenly sized cloves and are often spicier, like the potent Bavarian Purple. Hardnecks actually need sub-freezing weather to stimulate the bulbs to divide.

Almost any garlic variety will grow well in our climate. Our biggest challenge is giving it the rich, loamy soil it grows best in. Greene County’s glacial soils can be very fertile; it’s the texture that’s tricky, typically a mixture of rocks and fine-textured clay, waterlogged when wet and hard when dry. In too-wet soil, garlic may rot. Hard soil makes it tough for the bulbs to expand.

Mixing lots of compost into the first few inches of soil is a big help. Deep-rooted cover crops, planted in the previous season, can also be useful. Oats, clover and field peas break up dense soil and, when chopped down and left as mulch, add humus and support earthworms. A handful of composted chicken manure or another high-nitrogen organic fertilizer, worked into the soil before planting for a fertility boost, also helps grow superior garlic.

Harvest your garlic in next summer’s heat, when the softnecks’ foliage starts flopping over, or when hardnecks start turning yellow. Making garlic braids with the softnecks is easy and fun. Hardnecks, tied together in loose bunches so the air can circulate around the bulbs, are almost as attractive. Save the biggest bulbs to divide into cloves and plant again next year.

Ellenville has had its share of setbacks over the years, including but not limited to, the historic Nevele resort remaining shuttered due to a lack of financing for a proposed regional sports complex.

Then six months ago in early February, it appeared another landmark of Ellenville was going to close when the members of the picturesque nine-hole Shawangunk Country Club voted to sell the club to a developer who specializes in subsidized senior and workforce rental housing.

This was discouraging news for golfers in Ulster County who didn’t belong to private courses as two 18-hole public courses—the Hudson Valley Resort and Spa in Kerhonkson and Rondout Country Club in Accord—remained closed in 2019. Though plans call for Rondout to reopen as a nine-hole course and the Hudson Valley Resort has recently been purchased by new owners, local options for golfers are rapidly dwindling.

But the loss would have been even more devastating to the village of Ellenville where the course is located, according to Mayor Jeff Kaplan.

“Shawangunk has been a real asset for the community for over 90 years,” Kaplan said. “One thing Ellenville has enough of is subsidized housing. The village and the town (of Wawarsing) thought this would be a step back for us because this open space is probably the prettiest golf course you’re going to find in upstate New York. It’s magnificent.”

Fortunately, the village had adequate funds to purchase the golf course from a previous sale of land on the Shawangunk Ridge years ago and decided to let the public vote on acquiring the golf course in a special election on April 30. It passed by a nearly 5-1 margin and the golf course was purchased by the village on May 15. The final cost to the village is expected to be less than the original $450,000 price tag, Kaplan said.

Kaplan and Wawarsing supervisor Terry Houck were both ecstatic about saving the golf course, which will also feature winter activities such as sledding, tubing, ice skating and cross country skiing.

“The residents and the taxpayers of Ellenville agreed this was by far the best use of those funds,” Kaplan said. “The village is excited about the prospect of a new chapter in the history of Shawangunk Country Club. Ellenville needs a local golf course and this way there will be a sense of permanency where we don’t have to worry whether the golf course is going to be open or not.”

“People were overwhelmingly in favor of saving Shawangunk,” Houck said. “The history and the beauty of the property... has been and will continue to be an integral part of Ellenville and the town of Wawarsing community. The ‘Gunk,’ as it’s referred to, sits on a property that has a spectacular view of our Valley and the Shawangunk Ridge.”

Although the village purchased Shawangunk Country Club in May, Kaplan said the club will run it through 2019. He said another benefit of keeping it open is that the Ellenville High School boys and girls golf teams will continue to use it as their home course.

“The Ellenville High golf team was going to go to Tarry Brae Golf Course in Sullivan County about 20 miles away if the course didn’t remain open,” Kaplan said. “Now they can continue to play their home matches in Ellenville.

Frank Muller, the president of Shawangunk Country Club and the Ellenville High golf coach for 28 years, said the course that opened in 1927 is in tremendous shape this year under the leadership of new golf course superintendent Tom Wright.

“He formerly worked on the golf course at Mohonk and then went into landscaping,” Muller said. “He wanted to get back working on golf courses. It’s been in the best shape it’s been in in years.”

Muller, who estimates that he’s won the club championship “16 or 17 times,” said the par-34 course is relatively short, measuring 2,806 yards from the championship tees. But it’s hardly easy, he said.

“The course is very challenging with the shots that you have to hit off the sloping fairways,” he said. “You get a lot of uphill, downhill and side hill lies that make it difficult.”

Muller said the owners of Tony & Nick’s Italian Kitchen in Ellenville plan to have the restaurant open soon in the clubhouse.

As a tribute to the late village manager Joe Stoeckeler Jr., who tragically passed away on May 11 just four days before the village closed on Shawangunk Country Club, it was recently decided that the establishment will become known as “The Joseph P. Stoeckeler Jr. Memorial Golf Course and Park.

“Joe was the driving force in saving the ‘Gunk’ as an open space for a multi-purpose use,” Houck said in explaining the name change.

Houck believes the new operation will thrive and can be a “revenue neutral venture” with proper planning.

“Special events such as community organizational meetings, birthdays, anniversaries, weddings and outdoor concerts all will provide a facility that is local, in a beautiful setting and help offset costs to run the operation,” Houck said.

The Shawangunk Country Club is located at 38 Nevele Road in Ellenville. For more information, please call them at 845 210 4602 or visit their Facebook page @theshawangunkcountryclub.

THE GREAT OUTDOORS IN THE CATSKILLS

By Jeff Senterman

Have you been enjoying your summer in the Catskills? The month of September brings cooling temperatures and hints of the vivid leaf colors that will peak in early October. September is a great time to get outside and enjoy the region. Crowds are starting to thin, the temperatures are moderating, and there is generally good weather, all of which make it the perfect time to take the hike, bike trip or any other Catskills adventure you had been planning!

The Catskills Are Busy: What Is The Catskill Center Doing To Protect Them?

30,915 is the number of people that have interacted with the Catskill Stewards Program thus far during the 2019 season. At Kaaterskill Falls, Peekamoose Blue Hole, and Platte Clove, the Catskill Center’s stewards can be found educating visitors of the region how best to have a safe and enjoyable visit without leaving a trace.

The Catskill Park has been at the center of American tourism since the early 1820’s. Fresh air, mountain houses and nature-inspired art made the scenic Catskills a refuge. Much like today, travelers in the 1800’s sought the wilderness and expansive views of upstate New York—a reprieve from their NYC daily routines.

The iconic views in the Catskill Park have been made witness to another, more recent, surge of the tourism industry. With pristine waters, exceptional landscapes, and a plethora of amazing agricultural tourism, it’s no wonder the Catskills were named “number two” in Lonely Planet’s Top Regions, Best of Travel for 2019. Visitation provides a needed economic driver for Catskill communities, and the increase in sightseers brings people and their travel dollars to our rural towns, as well as our natural spaces.

Two of the most iconic, visited, and cherished destinations in the Catskill Park are Kaaterskill Falls and the Peekamoose Blue Hole. A quick internet search of, ’things to do in the Catskills’ yields a top recommendation to visit Kaaterskill Falls … and for good reason! The natural gem boasts a drop of over 260 feet over two tiers. The stream continues past the main falls area over numerous smaller falls and ledges before cascading over the final falls of this section of stream, Bastion Falls. Needless to say, if you’re one to hike, take pictures in nature, or are just looking for a big waterfall, Kaaterskill Falls is the place to visit.
After the successful 2018 season of stewardship at the Peekamoose Blue Hole, the Catskill Center prepared for 2019 by identifying other high-use locations in the Catskills. Taking what was learned from the Blue Hole and adapting our language, outreach technique, and ultimately the size of the program to better meet the needs of other locations; the Catskill Stewards Program now covers three iconic locations within the Catskill Park: Kaaterskill Falls, Peekamoose Blue Hole, and Catskill Center’s Platte Clove Preserve.

Stewards are on site to:
• welcome people to the Catskills;
• provide information about where to explore and what to avoid;
• describe impacts that are harmful to each location;
• educate how everyone can help reduce their impacts;
• inform people of the most important rules and regulations; and
• be a resource for any questions people have about these areas and others across the Catskills.

The 2019 steward season is breaking the Catskill Stewards Program’s 2018 records. Visitors will continue to come to the Catskills in ever increasing numbers, and bring with them the reminder that everyone needs the tools and skills necessary to enjoy the outdoors responsibly. When stewards are not present, litter increases, natural resources are harmed, and people are less informed about the intricacies of the unique landscape they’re visiting.

Next time you visit one of the three stewarding locations, take a moment to introduce yourself to a steward and perhaps thank them for their time and commitment to protecting the pristine quality of the Catskills. After all, the Catskills belong to all of us, a beautiful resource of public lands to enjoy, and protect, for future generations to come.

The Catskill Stewards Program is a program of the Catskill Center, supported by funds from donations by our members and donors. Major supporters of the Catskill Stewards Program include the New York State Department of Environmental Conservation, Rondout Neversink Stream Program, REI and the Church Communities Foundation. Additional supporters include the Catskill Mountain Club, Catskill 3500 Club and the Hunter Foundation.

2019 Catskills Lark in the Park!

The Annual Lark in the Park will offer exciting hiking, paddling, cycling, fishing, nature walks and lectures as well as cultural and educational events throughout the entire Catskill Region. From Saturday, October 5 through Monday, October 14, you can enjoy dozens of outdoor activities during the 10-day Lark celebration!

Help mark the anniversary of the creation of the Catskill Park by hiking to a Catskill fire tower, paddling the Pepacton...
Reservoir, cycling on the Catskill Scenic Trail, learning about the region’s ecology, and much more. Lark in the Park group activities are typically free of charge – everyone is welcome! Learn more at catskillslark.org or follow Catskills Lark in the Park on Facebook (facebook.com/CatskillsLarkinThePark). Events are always being added to the on-line schedule so be sure to check back frequently.

Lark in the Park was originally celebrated in 2004 to celebrate the 100th anniversary of the Catskill Park’s founding. It is now an annual celebration of the Catskill Park and the Catskill region led by the Catskill Center and the Catskill Mountain Club.

The Catskill Center Earns National Recognition

One thing that unites us as a nation is land: Americans strongly support saving open spaces they love. Since 1969, the Catskill Center for Conservation and Development has been doing just that for the people of the Catskill Region. Now the Catskill Center announced it has achieved national recognition—joining a network of over 400 accredited land trusts across the nation that have demonstrated their commitment to professional excellence and to maintaining the public’s trust in their work.

Jeff Senterman, Executive Director of the Catskill Center, says, "As a conservation organization, we value the protection of our unique natural resources and landscapes in the Catskill region. The seventeen easements held by the Catskill Center allow property owners to make the Catskills’ grandeur their personal legacy. Together, we protect important lands in perpetuity.”

Markley Boyer, Catskill Center Board Chair, says, "For 50 years, we at the Catskill Center have recognized the value of protecting the natural state of New York’s Catskills, and we are thrilled to now have our conservation work accredited by the Land Trust Accreditation Commission. Over the years, we’ve been trusted to care for precious Catskills lands such as the Thorn Preserve in Woodstock and Platte Clove in Hunter. To be so honored in the midst of our 50th Anniversary year empowers and reinforces our commitment for the next 50 years.”

The Catskill Center provided extensive documentation and was subject to a comprehensive third-party evaluation prior to achieving this distinction. The Land Trust Accreditation Commission awarded accreditation, signifying its confidence that the Catskill Center’s lands will be protected forever. Accredited land trusts steward almost 20 million acres of land—the size of Denali, Yellowstone, Grand Canyon, Glacier, Everglades and Yosemite National Parks combined.

“It is exciting to recognize the Catskill Center with this national mark of distinction,” said Tammara Van Ryn, executive director of the Commission. “Donors and partners can trust that the more than 400 accredited land trusts across the country are united behind strong standards and have demonstrated sound finances, ethical conduct, responsible governance, and lasting stewardship.”

The Catskill Center is one of 1,363 land trusts across the United States according to the Land Trust Alliance’s most recent National Land Trust Census. A complete list of accredited land trusts and more information about the process and benefits can be found at landtrustaccreditation.org.

Catskill Park Advisory Committee

Did you know that there is a group of Catskill Park stakeholders working together to address issues of park-wide importance in the Catskills? The Catskill Park Advisory Committee (CPAC) was established by the Catskill Center in consultation with the New York State Department of Environmental Conservation (DEC) several years ago. The CPAC is a group of representatives from local governments and organizations currently chaired by the Catskill Center and provides a forum for communities and user groups of the Catskill Park and the Catskill Watershed. The purpose of the Committee is to provide assistance, advice and guidance to the DEC, the New York City Department of Environmental Protection and other land managers in the management of the New York State Forest Preserve, the Catskill Park and the Catskill Watershed.

Meetings are held quarterly and are open to the public. If you’d like to learn more, join the mailing list or attend the next meeting, please contact the Catskill Center at 845 586 2611 or e-mail them at cccd@catskillcenter.org.

Love the Catskills to Life!

We often hear how a place is “loved to death” and can easily see how overuse can negatively impact the natural areas that people want to visit. As part of anything that we do, we want to make sure we are able to welcome more visitors to the Catskills to enjoy our important places, all without harming those places! We want to make sure our visitors help invest in and regenerate our natural areas and our communities—we want to love the Catskills to life!

In my mind, we can all take a few steps in that direction:

1. As residents or visitors, we need to ensure that we do not just take from the Catskills. We need to find ways to give back, whether they are large or small. When you’re hiking and see a candy bar wrapper, pick it up and pack it out! Thinking bigger? There are lots of volunteer opportunities in the Catskills tackling everything from invasive species to trail maintenance to staffing a fire tower!

2. We need to raise our voices for the Catskill Park. We need to continue the good work that has been accomplished in Albany and ensure continued funding to improve the infrastructure of the Catskill Park. These improvements make the Park more accessible, but at the same time help ensure natural resources protection and make for a better Park experience.

3. We need to pass on our love and appreciation for wild areas and the Catskills to new users and generations while understanding that those we talk to may have none of the experiences we have had, and their frames of reference are likely completely different.
4. We need to help the communities of the Catskills. When we enjoy the great outdoors, we need to make sure we also stop on main streets and enjoy our local communities. Get a coffee at a local shop, buy a sandwich for lunch at a deli within the Catskills. Outdoor enthusiasts need to use their economic potential for good in the Catskills!

Do your part and #LoveItToLife!

Give Back to the Catskills

The natural beauty, the majesty of the mountains, the protection of the Catskill Forest Preserve, the region's natural and cultural resources, all needs your help!

By supporting the work of the Catskill Center, you support: stewardship of our Catskill Park and its vast natural resources; the Center's collaborative spirit as we convene, create partnerships and facilitate discussions that benefit the region; and the Center’s work to support education, arts and culture throughout the Catskills.

TOWN TINKER

Memorial Day Weekend to September 30th

www.towntinker.com
Poet Pauline Uchmanowicz died in June. The Hudson Valley lost a dear friend, wonderful poet and dedicated teacher. In tribute, we offer a selection of her poems from Starfish, her chapbook published by Twelve Winters Press in 2016.

THE LOWERCASE

it’s visceral the way the g of green or ground dips below the sentence line planning cabbage in a child naked to the waist

seated before a bowl of borscht purpling herself with a spoon turned sideways

as brain gears crank in ukrainian and english—muse or lucky ear—
whatever her secret

may she never in any language suffer from onomatophobia or fear stars calling fields miracles whether or not we name them

THIS IS OUR WORLD

Scallop shells, hostages in my palms,
I look for guidance, shoreline receding near a mesh fence that my body cannot pass through, though my shadow passes through its shadow.

The moon zippers

through clouds like sperm racing to ova,

like the red pupil in the iris of a fish, finning up a pool of goddesses.

At sea level, life jackets dangle
ornament style

from the limbs of a tree.
A damp voice seeps from the foam:

Look everywhere,
you will find what you need.
IN THE PASSING LANE

The you inside of me today seems tangible.
A clapboard cottage beside a frozen pond: that is you.
My drive up the road: that is you too.
Like reading a sign, I see in the distance called past you passing me the concept of constantly holding friends in my mind, which reaffirms that all time happens at once, as firmly as these pines line the side of the road. In this moment, as a line of slow-moving cars with headlights on in daylight moves on the other side of the median strip, I recollect last week, in the face of a youth bound for Alaska, you, red-headed parrot of travel set against gimmicks that make us hate the cold.
This is told to you in this and every other moment.

LANDSCAPE ARCHITECTURE

Sheltered in a domesticated woodland, humbling one of those upscale country towns,
a roughly hewn gazebo lit by fireflies implies a secular chapel, sanctified not by a cross on its secular copula linking wind and blows, staked between mallard’s brass-winged migration and weathervane mount.

The gardener christens the structure a folly, a shady pace to watch pond water catch stars while twilight unfolds, setting suitable for summoning bride and groom to nuptials, even should purplish clouds unexpectedly engulf the firmament like a spreading bruise.

Autumn is a beautiful season to drive the Mountain Cloves Scenic Byway, a NY State route that is also an inspiring travel experience in the Northern High Peaks of the Catskill Mountains. For centuries, the same setting that inspired the Hudson River School painters has continued to draw artists and sightseers to its panoramic views of rugged mountains and picturesque valleys and streams. The Byway offers authentic insight into our history, as well as access to our many recreational and cultural pursuits and idyllic pastimes.
