“The Future of Jazz,” The Grace Kelly Quintet Comes to the West Kortright Center this October

On Sunday, October 13 at 7 pm, the West Kortright Center welcomes the Grace Kelly Quintet. Don’t miss this opportunity to hear this young jazz sensation about whom Wynton Marsalis raved, “Grace Kelly plays with intelligence, wit and feeling … a first-class musician.” And acclaimed musician, writer, and producer David Was raved on NPR, “What if I told you that the future of jazz…rested in the hands of a Korean American saxophonist named Grace Kelly?…. I’ve heard the future of jazz and it is Grace Kelly.”

Saxophonist Grace Kelly has played with the Boston Pops and with Jazz at Lincoln Center Orchestra at Lincoln Center and at D.C.’s Kennedy Center. She fronts her own band and has recorded and/or performed with Harry Connick, Jr., Dave Brubeck, Wynton Marsalis, Phil Woods, Frank Morgan, Esperanza Spalding, Toots Thielemans, Hank Jones, Chris Potter, Rufus Reid, Kenny Barron, Dianne Reeves, Billy Hart, Ann Hampton Callaway, James Cotton, and Terri Lynn Carrington. She’s played the major jazz festivals in the U.S. and Europe, has eight recordings on her own label, and been featured on CNN, ABC, NPR’s “Piano Jazz,” and in the LA Times, Jazz Times, the Boston Globe, the Washington Post, The Observer/London, Downbeat, and Glamour. And she just turned 20.

Tickets for the Grace Kelly Quintet are $28 general, $25 WKC Member and $11 under 19. The West Kortright Centre is located 49 West Kortright Church Road in East Meredith, NY, mid-way between the towns of Oneonta, Delhi, and Stamford. To purchase tickets or for more information, log onto www.westkc.org or call 607 278 5454.

Mixed Media Works by Patti Gibbons, “Escapes,” at The Storefront Gallery in Kingston

The Storefront Gallery in Kingston is pleased to feature the paintings and mixed media works of Patti Gibbons in a show titled “Escapes.” The opening reception is Saturday, October 5 from 5 to 8 pm, and the show runs through October 26.

In “Escapes,” Kingston artist Patti Gibbons explores images from the physical and the metaphysical worlds. Her landscapes depict vistas that move her deeply: olive trees on a hill, delicate clouds at sunset, a field of hay rolls. Her abstract drawings portray personal experiences that emerge from after starting with automatic, or blind drawings. Whether working in realism or in the abstract, Gibbons states: “The studio is a dream world. Once the door is closed the outside world is shut out, it is an escape to a place of wonder, exploration, and magic; a place where one feels most peaceful and complete.

Originally from Long Island, Patti Gibbons considers herself a native of the area as she has spent most of her life residing in and being inspired by the Hudson Valley. It is a place that has captured both her heart and her creative muse.

Ms. Gibbons was immersed in the arts from an early age, designing for local businesses, showing her work regionally and internationally. She obtained her AA degree in Visual Arts, followed by a Bachelors and Masters in Art Education from the State University at New Paltz. She has been teaching art to special needs students for 20 years. Recently leaving her teaching career, she is passionately pursuing her dream to design and paint full time.

Ms. Gibbons’ work depicts vistas of the Hudson Valley and of her travels. Those works, as well as her abstract “mindscapes,” portray an intimate and personal view of both the physical and subconscious world.

The Storefront Gallery is located at 93 Broadway in Kingston. Gallery hours are Saturday from 1-6 pm, by appointment and 24/7 through the storefront windows. For more information, call 845 338 8473 or visit www.TheStorefrontGallery.com.

MASTERS ON THE MOUNTAINTOP
Legendary Saxophonist Lew Tabackin and the Aaron Diehl Trio
Saturday, October 26, 2013, 8 pm
DOCTOROW CENTER FOR THE ARTS
7971 Main Street (Route 23A)
Village of Hunter, NY

Tickets: (518) 263 2063 or www.catskilljazzfactory.org
On Saturday, October 26, at 8 pm, the Catskill Jazz Factory will feature a performance by legendary saxophonist Lew Tabackin and the Aaron Diehl Trio at the Doctorow Center for the Arts in Hunter.

Diehl is a celebrated young jazz pianist and the artistic director of the Catskill Jazz Factory, which was founded in 2012 by Piers and Lucy Playfair along with Aaron Diehl to build community through jazz. It is a program of the Catskill Mountain Foundation and receives support from Friends of the Orpheum.

Having recently completed the second year of their summer residency program, the Jazz Factory’s upcoming concert is part of an ongoing Masters on the Mountaintop series, where Diehl and his trio accompany legendary jazz performers with the intent of fostering intergenerational dialogue within the art-form.

Diehl says: “I always talk about jazz as a language, and if somebody’s learning a language, especially a foreign language, they have to study the grammar, the syntax; they have to study the way the language is built, and then they actually have to speak that language with other people. Well, jazz is no different. If you’re going to play jazz and learn to speak jazz as a language through your instrument, then you have to have a foundation, and the only way to do that is by listening to and studying the masters.”

Regarding his trio’s October 26 performance with Tabackin, Diehl says, “They [the audience] can expect to hear some familiar jazz standards by tenor saxophonists, such as Coleman Hawkins, Lester Young, Sonny Rollins, John Coltrane—the giants of that instrument—but they can also expect to get a very clear sense of Lew Tabackin’s unique sound on the saxophone and unique contribution to the art-form and to recognize him as a living master.”

Tabackin has been hailed by critics throughout the world for his original sound on both the flute and the tenor saxophone, and it is his saxophone that will be featured in his performance with the Aaron Diehl Trio.
Tabackin shares Diehl’s view of building on the tradition of jazz greats, and says: “As a young person, I tried to learn about the tradition and the history of tenor saxophone. You know, for starters, I actually wound up basically imitating John Coltrane, but then I decided to check out how the saxophone developed, starting with the great Coleman Hawkins, so it’s perfectly natural for me to do a project like this.”

He goes on to say: “In the whole history of jazz music, there always were generational differences between older guys and younger guys always playing together. The older players gave information and experience to the younger players and the younger players gave energy to the older players. In the last thirty years or so, they started segregating with all the young guys playing together and the older players being stuck in this all-star situation. So it kind of messed up the natural reality… So I think it’s good that this project is happening.”

Tabackin first noticed Diehl’s talent while the young pianist was a student at Juilliard. Tabackin recalls: “I met Aaron when I was doing classes at Julliard’s jazz program a few years back, and I was quite impressed by his sensitivity, sensibility, the way he didn’t overplay just to play. He listened very carefully and didn’t do anything that was inappropriate, which is very rare for a young player.”

Diehl toured with the Wynton Marsalis Septet immediately following his graduation from high school, and he has been hailed by the Chicago Tribune as “the most promising discovery that Marsalis has made since Eric Reed.” He graduated from Juilliard in 2007 and in 2011 was named the Cole Porter Fellow in Jazz by the American Pianists Association.

Tabackin had a recent concert in Harlem that featured the tenor saxophone and suggested the organizers hire Diehl to accompany on the piano, so their upcoming performance at the Doctorow Center will mark their second concert together. Joining them on stage will be bassist Yasushi Nakamura and drummer Mark Whitfield Jr.

Diehl has received much fanfare of late for his new album The Bespoke Man’s Narrative, where he tailored the music to the skill-set of his band members, and it should be interesting to see what he can put together to highlight the skill-set of Tabackin for this latest Masters on the Mountaintop performance.

Tabackin ultimately sees jazz as a living tradition that can be expanded upon. He says: “That’s another aspect of what I try to do as I get older, I try to expand the tradition. I don’t want to leave the tradition and I don’t want to dwell on the tradition, I want to expand the tradition.” He adds, “It’s not a retro reality, it’s a living heritage that exists, and it doesn’t exist in too many people anymore, but when it’s right, you can express yourself through the tradition and try to expand the tradition.”

Tabackin sees Diehl as one of those rare talents who will have the chance to make his mark on the jazz world: “I’m looking forward to hearing where he goes and where he takes his music…. He has no limitations in life.”

Regarding the upcoming performance, Tabackin says: “The audience can expect a musical explanation, or musical perception of the history of the instrument, without going back and being museum-like or retro but allowing the great tradition to show its life and durability and continuum. And I might do a little bit of explanation verbally. If I play something and feel it will help to say a few words then I might do that.”

October 26 at 8 pm at the Doctorow Center for the Arts, 7971 Main Street, Hunter, NY, 12442 is a great time to see jazz history in the making as a legend on the tenor saxophone comes together with a brilliant new pianist to explore the living tradition of their art and to break new ground in this highly anticipated collaboration. To purchase tickets, go online at www.catskilljazzfactory.org or call the Catskill Mountain Foundation Box Office at 518 263 2063. Tickets purchased until 3 pm on the day of the concert are $23; $18 seniors; $7 students, and tickets purchased at the door are $27; $21 seniors; $7 students.
On October 24, GrowNYC, the New York Apple Association and FoodDay.org are spearheading The Big Apple Crunch. Primarily focused on participation at several New York City venues, the Big Apple Crunch is a play on words for New York City, also known as The Big Apple. The effort is to raise awareness of apples as a super food, to celebrate Food Day, and to break the world record for Most Participants in an Apple-Crunching Event. City dwellers can crunch an apple at any of GrowNYC’s Greenmarket farmers’ markets (like Columbia Greenmarket) that day. Schools like P.S. 5592 and 81 will be joined by crunchers at the Canaan Senior Service Center and the Marble Hill Youthmarket. And to make sure everyone is counted for the “crunch heard around the world,” RecordSetter.com—a New York City-based organization tracking new world records—will be tracking the Big Apple Crunch progress.

“Not wanting to miss out on the fun and the opportunity to support local farmers, the Pure Catskills Buy Local campaign is fielding a team of its own,” says Communications Director Tara Collins of the Watershed Agricultural Council. “Pure Catskills is looking for 1,000 (or more) hardy apple eaters so we can help GrowNYC reach their 1-million cruncher milestone. Many tasty varieties come right from our backyard here in the New York City Watershed. What better way to celebrate the season’s bumper crop than to extend the invitation to crunch together?”

To reach their goal, Pure Catskills is reaching out to the SUNY-Delhi campus community through the College Association of Delhi Inc. (CADI). “Weather permitting, we’re gathering students, faculty and community for the Big Apple Crunch in the Agora at 1:15 pm,” notes Christina Viafore, Marketing Manager for CADI, the food service arm of the SUNY-Delhi campus. “When Pure Catskills approached us with this fun group activity, we jumped at the chance to support local farmers, raise awareness of farming and promote nutritious eating simply by crunching a crisp one at the Big Apple Crunch. To accommodate lots of people, we’re hosting this event outside SUNY-Delhi’s Farrtell Student and Community Center. We’re also getting nine bushels of apples from Pure Catskills member Middlefield Orchard of Cooperstown and hope that farmers Willy and Joan Bruneau will join us for the Big Apple Crunch.”

Nutritionally, a medium-sized apple weighs in with just 80 calories, zero grams of fat and a cool 22 grams of carbohydrates, 5 of those tied up in fiber—about as much as a bowl of bran cereal. An apple also contains Vitamin C and A, antioxidant phytonutrients, boron, iron and potassium. To top it off, apples contain no fat, sodium or cholesterol. “What better excuse to take a break from whatever you're doing, to help set a new world record,” says Collins. “Make your crunch count and heard around the world. ### A Bumper Crop of Apples

Fruit experts predict 2013 to be a “bumper crop” year for apples. But what exactly does that mean? In the agricultural realm, the term signifies an unusually large harvest of a single crop. Sometimes called a “bumper harvest,” a bumper crop results when Mother Nature lays out all the proper growing conditions for that plant. For New York State apples, adequate rains, lots of sunshine, moderate temperatures and no killing frost during the bloom period has allowed for this to happen.

The actual origin of the phrase is up for debate. According to StackExchange.com, a website on the English language and usage, the term “bumper” was used as slang as early as 1759. Some postulate that bumper was any object that would cause a bump, or swelling, or easily dent a surface. There's also speculation that since the top of a silo is called a “bumper,” any crop harvested and stored to the point of filling a silo was a bumper crop. According to Etymonline, bumper in the 1670s referred to a “glass filled to the brim.” To that end then, Pure Catskills speculates that any farmer harvesting a bumper crop is gleefully toasting to it at the local pub.

Whatever your reason for eating an apple, mark your calendar for October 24 and register online for the Big Apple Crunch (www.pure-catskills-big-apple-crunch-team.eventbrite.com).

How to Participate in the Pure Catskills SUNY-Delhi Crunch Team:

1. Register online at pure-catskills-big-apple-crunch-team.eventbrite.com so your crunch will be counted as part of the Pure Catskills SUNY-Delhi Crunch Team.

2. Pick your apple of choice: Macintosh, Granny Smith, Red Delicious, Crispin, Gala, or whichever suits your fancy. New York State boasts over 40 varieties. Can’t make up your mind? Crunch them all!

3. Take the road trip on October 24. At 1 pm, join the group at the SUNY Delhi campus. Pure Catskills will provide the New York State apples from Middlefield Orchard of Cooperstown. Everyone bites in at 1:15 pm Catskills-time.

4. Can’t make it to the college on October 24? That’s okay. Register anyway and then crunch at home, crunch in your car, or crunch in the dark! Whatever way you choose to bite in, your crunch counts when you register for the Pure Catskills Crunch Team.

2013 marks the 40th anniversary of the Hanford Mills Museum in East Meredith. An operating mill site since 1846, for most of its commercial life Hanford Mills was owned and operated by the family of David Josiah Hanford, who purchased the mill in 1860.

Under the Hanfords, the mill grew into a “rural industrial complex” that included a sawmill, gristmill, feed mill, woodworking shop and hardware store.

In 1898, Hanford Mills harnessed the waters of Kortright Creek to provide the town with its first electricity. Through time, the Hanfords also used steam and gasoline engines to power the mill and its electric dynamo.

The mill closed in 1967, re-opening later that year as a museum. In 1973 Hanford Mills Museum was chartered by the State of New York. Its significance as one of the last nineteenth century mills to survive intact earned it a place on the State and National Registers of Historic Places.

Hanford Mills Museum maintains a remarkable collection of over 50,000 objects housed in twelve of the sixteen buildings that comprise the site. An extensive photograph collection, library, and archive are also housed at the Museum.

Many of the papers, photographs and objects in the collection are original to the site, and others were collected by Mr. Kenneth Kelso, a local farmer and businessman who founded the Museum. In 1967, at the close of over 120 years as a working business, Mr. Kelso purchased the core of the site and collections and in the process immediately transitioned the site from a working rural industrial enterprise into a living museum. After being chartered as an educational corporation by the Board of Regents of the University of the State of New York in 1973, Hanford Mills Museum continued this legacy by actively developing its object and archival collections in order to fully document and interpret the site and its history. Objects in the collection run the gamut from fully operational woodworking and grist milling machinery to domestic artifacts, wooden tool handles, plows and harrows, and gasoline engines. The archives contain records that document over a century of Hanford and Pizza family business transactions and a photograph collection that traces in detail the development of the Mill and its community from the 1870s to the present. Mr. Kelso also bought the 1926 Fitz Overshot Waterwheel, a highlight of the Museum’s guided tour which still powers the Mill, for just $40. “We are all indebted to Ken Kelso and his initiative and vision,” says Callahan.

Celebrating 40 Years

Chronicling key events in the Mill’s and the Museum’s history, Mill to Museum: Celebrating 40 Years of Vision and Dedication also tells the story of Hanford Mills transitioning from a 120-year old working mill to a museum.

“The Museum is here today because of the entrepreneurial spirit of the people who ran and worked at the Mill as well as the people who had the vision to transform the business into a museum,” says Museum Executive Director Liz Callahan.
Astor House
Business for Sale or Lease

The Mountain Market & Bakery at the Astor House is an established market, bakery, and coffee roaster in Greene County, NY, with a prime location near Hunter Mountain on Main Street, Tannersville, an up-and-coming revitalized area with many new businesses, including a performing arts theater. This 1800’s Victorian is fully renovated with 2,700 square feet of first floor retail space and has a prominent, attractive curbside presence with ample off-street parking. The Hunter Foundation*, which owns and operates the Astor House, is looking for interested parties to submit proposals to take over operation of the business. It is a turnkey operation fully equipped and staffed with very low upfront costs and minimal capital requirements. Favorable lease terms with options to buy are available for qualified individuals. The Hunter Foundation would also strongly consider offers to buy this property outright. In addition to the first floor retail space, the second floor has a gallery and two income-producing residential apartments, one 1-bedroom and one 2-bedroom; the third floor has one 2-bedroom/2-bath apartment. Interested parties should contact Charlene Holdridge at the Hunter Foundation, charlene@hunterfoundation.org, or by phone, (518) 589-5050.

On Sunday October 13, from 10 am ti 5pm, Hanford Mills Museum will hold the Miller’s Harvest Festival & Folkways Fair, a day of hands-on history and fall fun. At the Festival, you can enjoy activities such as a farmers’ market, artisans demonstrating and selling traditional crafts, music and entertainment, and horse-drawn wagon rides. The Festival includes kids’ activities, like traditional children’s games and making corn-husk dolls. Visitors can also try shelling and grinding corn using our historic hand-operated equipment.

In addition to guided Mill tours, the Festival will feature our 1869 Gristmill with its newly-installed Munson Brothers Millstone powered by a water turbine.

More Information

Hanford Mills Museum is located at 51 County Highway 12 in East Meredith, NY 13757. The museum is open Wednesday through Sunday, 10 am to 5 pm from mid-May to mid-October. It is also open on Columbus Day, Monday, October 14. For more information, call them at 607 278 5744 or visit www.hanfordmills.org.

The Shavertown Trail offers families and novice hikers a unique opportunity in the Catskills—a spectacular view after only one moderately strenuous mile, followed by a fairly level mile and a half through beautiful rock ledges and wonderful forest to explore.

Be ready to break a sweat as you climb 520 feet in that first mile, but it is so worth it. Wander past a lovely pond, complete with pink and white water lilies in season, and enjoy the spectacular view of the Pepacton Reservoir. Visitors can walk around the pond and head back or continue on. The next mile and a half of trail winds around craggy boulders adorned with a variety of lichens. Much of the trail before and after the pond is on an old access road which passes through some overgrown pastures filled with wildflowers. Parts of the steeper first section have stone steps to ease the climb. The second mile and a half of trail only gains 240 feet of elevation over that distance, making it a pleasant stroll for most hikers, young and old. The trail is 5.3 miles round trip. The Shavertown Trail begins across the street from the parking area for the DEP Shavertown Boat Launch on the Pepacton Reservoir.

Running the Long Path for a Good Cause
Runner Kenneth Posner recently announced the successful completion of his quest to set a new fastest known time for the Long Path, a 350-mile scenic hiking trail that stretches from New York City to Albany (and includes over 100 miles in the Catskill Mountains). Posner started his thru-run at 7:14 AM on Sunday, August 25 and reached the finish on Tuesday, September 3, at 10:20 AM, for a total time of 9 days, 3 hours, and 6 minutes. Of the 119 known end-to-end thru-hikers of the Long Path, the prior fastest known time was 12 days.

“Running the Long Path was an incredible adventure,” Posner commented. “I was floored by the scenic vistas as the trail wound its way through many of New York’s most beautiful state parks and preserve. I am deeply appreciative to the Trail Conference and volunteers for their meticulous work blazing, maintaining, and providing online notes for the trail. I encourage ultra-runners and thru-hikers to take a shot at setting a faster record and other people to pick one of the many beautiful sections of the Long Path for a day hike.” In connection with his hike, Posner has so far raised approximately $10,000 for New York Road Runners’ (NYRR) youth fitness programs which provide free resources to children with little or no access to physical activity in underserved areas in New York and across the USA.

Take a Hike!
If you are looking to get out on the trails, but are looking for some guided hikes to help you get your bearings on Catskill Mountain trails, the region has several different groups that lead guided hikes. The Catskill Mountain Club (CMC) offers members and non-members the opportunity to go hiking, paddling, biking and skiing throughout the Catskills. More information on the CMC and schedules of their activities can be found at www.catskillmountainclub.org. The Catskill 3500 Club leads hikes up the 35 peaks in the Catskills that reach above 3500 feet in elevation. Visit the 3500 Club’s website at www.catskill-3500-club.org for information on their activities. The Rip Van Winkle Hikers also lead hikes throughout the region and you can find out more information about the club check out their website at www.nyorkheritage.com/rvw.

Outdoor News, Events and Updates
Five Restored Fire Towers in Catskill Park Are Focus of Hiking Brochures and Maps
To help visitors find their way to the fire towers and understand their history, the Trail Conference developed a trail map and brochure for each of the restored Fire Towers of the Catskill Park: the Balsam Lake Mountain Fire Tower; the Hunter Mountain Fire Tower; the Overlook Mountain Fire Tower; the Red Hill Fire Tower; and the Tremper Mountain Fire Tower. Each brochure includes a map of the area surrounding the fire tower and a description of the most direct hike to the fire tower. They are available on the Trail Conference’s website as free downloads, in both black-and-white and color. All five brochures and maps are available at www.nynjtc.org/news/catskill-fire-tower-brochures.

Woodland Valley/Romer Mountain Long Path Relocation-
Throughout this summer volunteers have been working on what will be over 9 miles of new backcountry hiking trail in the Catskill Mountains between the village of Phoenicia and the existing Burroughs Range Trail. If you are interested in joining a trail crew to work on this trail (no experience is necessary—the crew provides the tools and the training), want to learn how you can support this program or just want more information about the work that is being done, please visit http://nynjtc.org/content/new-long-path-construction-catskill-mountains.

Getting Involved
If you are interested in learning more about hiking the Catskill Mountains, joining a trail crew, adopting a trail for maintenance, or just finding out more information about stewardship of our recreational facilities in the Catskill Mountains, please contact the Trail Conference at 518 628 4243 or via e-mail at catskills@nynjtc.org.

Jeff Senterman was formerly an Assistant Forest Ranger for the DEC in Greene County, graduated with a degree in Environmental Science from Lyndon State College, has worked in the Environmental Planning field, is currently the Catskill Region Program Coordinator for the New York-New Jersey Trail Conference and is a member of the Board of Directors for the Catskill Mountain Club and the Friends of the Catskill Interpretive Center.

The New York-New Jersey Trail Conference partners with parks to create, protect, and promote a network of 2,000 miles of public trails, including 29 lean-tos and over 200 miles of trails in the Catskill Mountain region. We offer volunteer opportunities for people who love the outdoors, as well as publishing detailed hiking maps for the Catskill Mountain Region, along with a number of other regions. The Catskill Lark in the Park began in 2004 to recognize the centennial of the Catskill Park. Since its inception, the “Lark” has brought together organizations and people who have participated in hundreds of events aimed at heightening awareness of the Catskill Mountain Region. Coordination of this event is a partnership between the Catskill Center for Conservation and Development, the Catskill Mountain Club, and the New York-New Jersey Trail Conference.

The Catskill Park and Forest Preserve is a 705,000-acre patchwork consisting of nearly 300,000 acres of public land. The New York State Department of Environmental Conservation (DEC) is responsible for managing forest preserve land—considered “forever wild”—within the Catskill Park.¹ DEC’s primary objective is to provide outdoor recreation and access; Lark in the Park events do that splendidly; visit www.catskillslark.org. This year, every day between October 5 and October 14 there will be hikes, backpacks, paddles, bicycling, fire tower climbs, educational and environmental events, trail maintenance, a children’s activity, mapping first growth forest, introduction to fly fishing, and a night hike to view a beaver pond and perhaps see these busy animals.

We will offer three off-the-beaten-path treks for the 2013 Lark. Huntersfield Mountain on the border of Greene and Schoharie Counties is 3,423 feet in elevation, just missing being a Catskill 3500 Club requirement for membership—35 peaks exceeding 3500 feet, 13 without trails, must be climbed. We will hike 1.3 miles from a quarry up mostly gradual grades to a lean-to with good viewing. After a lunch break, we will descend 2.4 miles on a lovely trail to a lower trailhead with vehicles spotted at both parking areas.

From the lean-to, we climb just a bit more on a yellow-marked trail to the true treed-in summit of Huntersfield, passing a view east to Ashland Pinnacle and Richmond Mountain. A red-marked trail from these peaks merges onto the summit route, which passes a metal rod up in a tree with two 2x4s; no one we know can explain its history. The yellow connector trail to the lean-to ends, and a steady loss of elevation soon begins with occasional moderately steep pitches through scenic ledges, but no section is difficult along the 1,175-foot descent featuring two long welcome level sections. In 0.7 miles from the lean-to, an ATV trail from the north reaches the red trail.

In another quarter-mile the red trail turns right, but first, take the unmarked side path straight ahead for good views of the Schoharie Reservoir and Stamford’s Utsayantha Mountain with summit infrastructure. Retrace to the marked trail, which has some lovely birch trees and occasional red efts and Indian pipe. At 1.3 miles, a steep descent between rock ledges leads to a grassy woods road that features stately red pine and spruce plantations, part of a Roosevelt-era Civilian Conservation Corps project.

At two miles, the red trail leaves the woods road to the right and descends in wet, mossy, rocky areas (take care with footing) to the road; turn, right, to the lower parking area. Without a second vehicle, the road walk back up to the quarry is one mile.

One week later we’ll hike the Sleepy Hollow Trail, which heads up Rip Van Winkle Hollow. In the 19th century, tourists came by Hudson River steamboats and rail to Palenville, and then by stagecoach up this former rocky woods road to the famed Catskill Mountain House. We found an 1881 penny on this trail at the foundation of an old inn when we were measuring the trails in the Catskill Forest Preserve. In 1882 a narrow-gauge railroad was constructed through Stony Clove, which was preferable to the bumpy stagecoach ride. Ascent is 800 feet in 1.5 miles to a picnic area overlooking the Hudson River Valley.

We will then hike a mile up nearby Harding Road Trail from Palenville to a spectacular lookout up Kaaterskill Clove. George Harding built the Hotel Kaaterskill near the top of South Mountain in 1880-81, which accommodated 1,000 guests, after a tiff with Charles Beach, owner of the Catskill Mountain House. That lavish resort apparently had not provided a special diet for his daughter. He also built Harding Road for access, considered an engineering marvel in its time, painstakingly constructed to switchback up the steep 1600-foot escarpment from Palenville; it is now a section of the Long Path.² At the great view up Kaaterskill Clove, the route curves around the hillside and passes a large fireplace cleverly built into the cliff. (The route reaches the Sleepy Hollow Horse Trail at 2.7 miles, making a potential 8.4-mile loop back to Palenville; two vehicles at two trailheads are recommended—we road-walked four miles on sore feet!)

The next day we’ll visit Palenville Overlook, a fascinating destination that can be approached from five areas. We’ll begin at the terminus of South Lake Road in North-South Lakes State Campground and visit the Catskill Mountain House site, Boulder Rock and Split Rock on the Escarpment Trail, past the Hotel Kaaterskill site down to the Sleepy Hollow Horse Trail, turning left off the Escarpment Trail. We pass the top of Harding Road Trail, staying on the horse trail through a shady hemlock forest. The route descends a bit and reaches two paths, one down a rocky ledge that horses could not maneuver, so the other option is a bypass that comes back in to the horse trail. Now the route becomes especially attractive, mostly level terrain surrounded by mountain laurel, and as autumn leaves fall, views become more and more available across Kaaterskill Clove to Kaaterskill High Peak.

In one mile from the Escarpment Trail, the route drops 150 feet to the Palenville Overlook junction; when we last hiked this in autumn, thousands of acorns had fallen on the trail, making the footing as we descended a bit precarious, like staying upright on ball bearings! A level 0.3-mile trail from the junction goes to the site of an historic boarding house where foundations remain. Views to the mountains and the Hudson Valley from open rock ledges are spectacular! Route 23A is visible looking straight down between boulders from one of the overlooks; great rock thrones have been built for lunch with a view. When you first reach this area, a path goes straight ahead to another overlook.

We’ll loop back to North Lake along the Sleepy Hollow Horse Trail and old Mountain House road through occasional very wet sections, passing under a high electric utility line, site of the old stationary engine Otis Railroad Line that carried guests 1600 feet up the escarpment to the Catskill Mountain House. This hike is a 500-foot total ascent.

¹ In 1885 New York became the only state where constitutional protection of public land was given by the citizenry: It shall “be forever kept as wild forest lands.” Article XIV of the New York State Constitution mandated that the newly-created Forest Preserve lands in the Catskills and Adirondacks “shall not be leased, sold, or exchanged, or be taken by any corporation, public or private, nor shall the timber thereon be sold, removed, or destroyed.” Forests are re-growing and our grandchildren will again marvel at stands of giant hemlock. Hiking clubs, dedicated to the protection of our public lands, help keep these wondrous places nearly as wild and pristine as they were in 1609, when Hendrick Hudson watched the sun fall behind the mountains as he stood aboard the Half Moon on his explorations of the great river soon to be named after him. He must have imagined what delights and dangers the vast wilderness might offer to future explorers. Four hundred years later, hikers find inspiration, adventure, and re-creation in New York’s Forest Preserves, established by those far-sighted lovers of nature who created this magnificent heritage for all the generations to come.

² The Long Path begins at the New Jersey side of the George Washington Bridge and follows state parks and forests, old roads and existing trails to the end of John Boyd Thacher State Park for 356 miles. Then 80 road miles connect to the Northville-Placid Trail to Lake Placid. New sections are regularly built to avoid road walks in the Catskill Forest Preserve and elsewhere. A section is now being completed from Phoenicia to the 2.7-mile point on the trail from Woodland Valley State Campground to Wittenberg Mountain, avoiding road walking. Another new section was built connecting the Tremper Mountain/Willow region to Silver Hollow near Edgewood in Stony Clove, and from Silver Hollow to Plateau Mountain, eliminating two extensive road walks.

Carol and David White are authors of Catskill Day Hikes for All Seasons (Adirondack Mountain Club, 2002). Their all-new 4th edition of Catskill Trails was published in July 2013 and is optionally packaged with the Catskill Park National Geographic Trails Illustrated Map they helped create. Carol is editor of Catskill Peak Experiences: Mountaineering Tales of Endurance, Survival, Exploration & Adventure from the Catskill 3500 Club (Black Dome Press, 2008). Carol’s new book, Peak Experiences: Danger, Death, and Daring in the Mountains of the Northeast (University Press of New England) is now available for purchase in bookstores and online. Two accounts are about the Catskills. Signed copies of all of these books are available at the Village Square Bookstore and Literary Arts Center in Hunter, NY.

I’M SO EXCITED! (RATED R, 95 MINUTES)
DIRECTED BY PEDRO ALMODOVAR
A technical failure has endangered the lives of the people on board Peninsula Flight 2549. The pilots, along with their colleagues in the Control Center, are struggling to find a solution. The flight attendants and the chief steward are atypical characters who, in the face of danger, try to forget their own personal problems and devote themselves to the task of making the flight as enjoyable as possible for the passengers, while they wait for a solution. But everyone finds that life in the clouds is as complicated as it is at ground level. In Spanish with English subtitles. 10/4-10/6. Friday 7:15; Saturday 4:15 & 7:15; Sunday 7:15

“First-class hilarity, and all of the acting is superb.”
—Joe Morgenstern, Wall Street Journal

LETTERS TO JACKIE (UNRATED, 90 MINUTES)
DIRECTED BY BILL COUTURIE
After President John F. Kennedy was assassinated in 1963, the president’s widow, Jacqueline Kennedy, received thousands of letters from the public offering their heartfelt condolences. This film focuses on the deeply personal letters that flooded in from all over the country to comfort this greatly admired woman. Set against a treasure trove of archival footage taken during the Kennedy era, the moving letters are read by twenty of today’s top actors. 10/11-10/14. Friday 7:15; Saturday 4:15 & 7:15; Sunday 5:00 & 7:15; Monday 7:15

“...with staggering, exceptional archival footage, Letters to Jackie resonates on an emotional, even cathartic, level nearly fifty years after JFK’s passing.”
—Basil Tsiokos, All Things Documentary
PRINCE AVALANCHE
(RATED R, 94 MINUTES)
DIRECTED BY DAVID GORDON GREEN
Driven by striking performances from Rudd and Hirsch, Prince Avalanche is an offbeat comedy about two men painting traffic lines on a desolate country highway that’s been ravaged by wildfire. Against this dramatic setting, beautifully shot by frequent Green collaborator Tim Orr, the men bicker and joke with each other, eventually developing an unlikely friendship. Funny, meditative and at times surreal, Prince Avalanche features a moving score by Explosions in the Sky and David Wingo, and was loosely adapted from an Icelandic film called Either Way. 10/18-10/20. Friday 7:15; Saturday 4:15 & 7:15; Sunday 7:15

“Warmly enjoyable, it has room for both very funny physical comedy and rapturous, stand-alone, near-experimental montages given superb support by Explosions in the Sky and David Wingo’s diverse original rock tracks.”

—Dennis Harvey, Variety

AKA DOC POMUS
(UNRATED, 99 MINUTES)
DIRECTED BY PETER MILLER & WILL HECHTER
Paralyzed with polio as a child, Brooklyn-born Jerome Felder reinvented himself first as a blues singer, renaming himself Doc Pomus, then emerged as a one of the most brilliant songwriters of the early rock and roll era, writing “Save the Last Dance for Me,” “This Magic Moment,” “A Teenager in Love,” “Viva Las Vegas,” and dozens of other hits. For most of his life Doc was confined to crutches and a wheelchair, but he lived more during his sixty-five years than others could experience in several lifetimes. In his later years, Doc was a mentor to generations of younger songwriters, and a fierce advocate for downtrodden rhythm and blues musicians. A.K.A. Doc Pomus brings to life Doc’s joyous, romantic, heartbreaking, and extraordinarily eventful journey. 10/25-10/27. Friday 7:15; Saturday 4:15 & 7:15; Sunday 7:15

“A loving tribute... Tells the story of a remarkable life and career in wonderfully entertaining fashion.”

—Frank Scheck, The Hollywood Reporter

CRYSTAL FAIRY & THE MAGICAL CACTUS
(UNRATED, 98 MINUTES)
DIRECTED BY SEBASTIAN SILVA
Jamie invites a complete stranger—a woman who goes by the name of Crystal Fairy—to come along on a road trip, where his self-absorbed personality clashes with her free and esoteric nature. They head into the desert with the mission of drinking a San Pedro cactus for a mescaline-fueled psychedelic trip. As the journey unfolds and they get to know each other better, Jamie must learn that he must be more accepting of others, while Crystal finds the way to accept herself. 11/1-11/3. Friday 7:15; Saturday 4:15 & 7:15; Sunday 7:15

DIRECTED BY NAT FAXON, JIM RASH
Shy 14-year-old Duncan goes on summer vacation with his mother, her overbearing boyfriend, and her boyfriend’s daughter. Having a rough time fitting in, Duncan finds an unexpected friend in Owen, manager of the Water Wizz water park. 10/4-10/13.

Friday 7:30; Saturday 4:00 & 7:30; Sunday 7:30

—Joe Morgenstern, Wall Street Journal

THE BUTLER
(RATED PG-13, 132 MINUTES)
DIRECTED BY LEE DANIELS
As Cecil Gaines serves eight presidents during his tenure as a butler at the White House, the civil rights movement, Vietnam, and other major events affect this man’s life, family, and American society. 10/18-10/27.

Friday 7:30; Saturday 4:00 & 7:30; Sunday 7:30

“This is an important film presented as mainstream entertainment. It’s a great American story.”
—Richard Roeper, The Chicago Sun-Times

When a small group of compassionate citizens came together some years ago, their purpose was quite simple: to enrich life on the mountaintop. This progressive group of second homeowners, soon to become the Windham Chapter, has taken many small steps to make great strides in our community. As a division of the Catskill Mountain Foundation, the Windham Chapter is committed to supporting projects in the arts, education, and recreation.

Their impact has been felt on many levels; from the very public to the intensely personal: radio and emergency equipment for local firefighters, medical care for families, band uniforms for WAJ students and college scholarships for deserving graduates. This group saw a need and made a commitment to help fill it. Since 2003, the Windham Chapter has awarded nearly two million dollars to local non-profit organizations.

Some people want things to happen, some people wish things to happen...

The Windham Chapter makes things happen.

The Windham Chapter is a 501(c)3 non-profit organization, governed by an all-volunteer board.
